MSU Senior Seeks $38 In Small Claims Court

Student's Refund Claim To Be Decided Next Week

A decision will be made next week by Calloway County District Judge Sid Easley on a Murray State University student's claim that the university owes him a refund of $38.22 because a revision in the school calendar deprived him of three days' study time.

Larry Pyla, Murray, and his wife, Carolyn, filed a complaint in the Small Claims division of Calloway County District Court claiming that the university failed to fulfill a contract to provide Pyla with a semester consisting of a designated period of 73 days.

The plaintiff, a university senior, claims he is due $38.22 plus court costs of $15.50 to compensate him for the portion of his tuition which covered the three days omitted from the scheduled fall semester because of an anticipated football championship game in Florida.

Easley said this morning in small claims court that he would call the state attorney general's office before making a decision on whether or not Pyla's contract action against Murray State can be brought in the small claims division of district court in Calloway County or if it must be brought in circuit court in Franklin County. Franklin County is the county of the state capital, Frankfort.

Dr. Richard Butwell, MSU's vice president for academic programs who was served with a subpoena for the hearing, was present with university attorney James O. Overby. In late November, Butwell announced that the university would eliminate the three days from the semester and move finals up four days in case the MSU Racer football team played in the NCAA Class I-AA national championship game Dec. 15.

The rescheduling was made, according to Butwell, to allow students to attend the game in Orlando, Fla., if Murray won its semi-final game with Lehigh University on Dec. 8.

The Racers were beaten by Lehigh and did not get the opportunity to play in the finals. However, when the new schedule was announced by Butwell, it was noted that it would be enforced regardless of whether Murray won or lost the Lehigh game. Finals were held beginning Dec. 10, instead of Dec. 14.

Overby filed a motion to dismiss the complaint on four grounds:

— The complaint fails to state a cause of action upon which relief can be granted.

— The court lacks jurisdiction over the defendant, Murray State University.

— Murray State University is an agency of the Commonwealth of Kentucky and as such has sovereign immunity from such legal action.

— Any action taken by Butwell with respect to matters about which the plaintiffs complain (if any action whatsoever was taken by Butwell, which is denied) was taken by him in good faith, in the pursuit of his official duties as an agent and employee of Murray State University.

Overby claimed that Section 231 of the state constitution provides for the doctrine of sovereign immunity. He noted that the state Court of Appeals had ruled in two cases involving the University of Louisville that an agency of the state can be sued only if the Legislature has waived that immunity. The university attorney further said that small claims court does not have jurisdiction on either a negligence action or a contract action where a state agency is involved.

Pyla, representing himself in the matter as is customary in small claims action, said that he made the decision to file the claim after calling the attorney general's office. He said he talked with three lawyers in that office who advised him to take the case to small claims court.

Easley, who noted that the decision of the small claims court may be appealed in circuit court, set the case for 10 a.m. Wednesday, Jan. 30.

HIGH WIRE ACT — Workers of the Murray Electric System have been changing a bad pole on Chestnut Street Tuesday and today. According to Ron Underwood, system superintendent, the pole was discovered to be in a rotted condition by a summer survey crew. It is being changed for safety purposes, he added. Underwood said a new pole was set and lines are transferred from the old pole.

Four Lodged In Calloway Jail After Arrests

Four persons were lodged in the Calloway County Jail following separate arrests made by officials in the Calloway County Sheriff's Office, according to Sheriff Max Morris.

All arrests were made within the last three days, Morris said.

Timothy Wade Scarbrough, 19, had bond set at $5,000 after being charged with first-degree burglary in connection with a house on Bailey Road, Morris said.

Bond was set at $10,000 for Clinton J. Fleagle, 22, after he was charged with first-degree burglary in connection with two Shady Oaks Court mobile homes and a house on Bailey Street, Morris said.

Billy Gene Harris, 47, was charged with receiving stolen property valued over $100 in connection with a stolen shotgun, according to Morris. He added bond was set at $1,000.

Kelly Irene Salmons, 18, was charged with theft over $100 and second-degree forgery, Morris said. Bond was set at $5,000, he added.

A juvenile was placed in the detention center in connection with three burglary charges, Morris added.

Airport Board To Discuss Procurement

The Murray-Calloway County Airport Board will hold a special meeting at noon Friday at the Murray Holiday Inn to discuss an airport procurement code, according to Hugh L. Oakley, chairman.

Other routine business also will be discussed at the meeting, Oakley said. The public is invited to all airport meetings.

Arts Proposal Tops City Board Meeting

A discussion of the arts education proposal will highlight the Thursday, Jan. 24, meeting of the Murray Independent Board of Education. The meeting will be held at 7 p.m. in the board office building.

Dorothy Lanier, curriculum coordinator, and Emmy Edwards will present the arts proposal to the board.

Other agenda items include the consideration of meat bids for the month of February and personnel recommendations.

aimed at containing the impact of the Soviet intervention in Afghanistan.

The initiatives, not all directed at nations friendly to the United States, include a series of sensitive diplomatic missions:

—Deputy Secretary of State Warren Christopher, officials said, will visit Pakistan sometime during the next two weeks to discuss the possibility of a multi-national effort to bolster that country's defenses.

—Diplomatic troublemaker Clark Clifford will go to India next week to assure Prime Minister Indira Gandhi that the proposed U.S. military buildup of Pakistan is designed for Pakistan's defense and not to tip the regional power balance against India.

—Under Secretary of State David Newsom will travel to Romania this Saturday to reassure Romanian authorities of American support for Romanian independence. Romania, like Afghanistan, has a long border with the Soviet Union, and the Soviet intervention in Afghanistan has heightened fears in Romania about its own security.

These missions are coupled with a continuing U.S. effort to win foreign support for President Carter's proposed global boycott of the Summer Olympics in Moscow or transferring the Games to another site.

of information to be submitted annually to the state Insurance Department.

Rep. James Bruce, D-Hopkinsville, the sponsor, stressed that the task falls to the companies, not the agents.

The action is kind of a curtain-raiser for the proposed rewriting of Kentucky's workmen's compensation law, which will occupy much time in the 1980 session when related bills are introduced.

Nonetheless, the House approved it 82-13 and sent it to the Senate.

The House also passed bills which clarify that couples contemplating divorce have a 60-day waiting period if there are children and which put into statute increased expenses of sheriffs from $2,100 to $3,600 annually.

Rep. Bob Helmeringer, R-Louisville, objected that there is no restriction on how sheriffs can spend the extra money and said, "This really now is a shakedown."

The Senate was occupied with another hearing on the State Transportation Department and how the ailing Road Fund should be handled.

On the committee level, both chambers approved companion pieces of legislation closing the Maxey Flats nuclear waste disposal site in Fleming County and fixed strict procedures for its reopening.

The state has stopped further burials of radioactive material at Maxey Flats and has a contract with a consulting firm to maintain the site.

The Senate Agriculture and Natural Resources Committee called on Attorney General Steve Beshear to study the possibility of Kentucky filing a suit challenging the federal strip mine law—a matter which some Virginia operators already have won in a federal court.

Beshear has indicated he is waiting for the proper time to file such an action on behalf of Kentucky, whose coal operators would be at an economic disadvantage against competitors in Virginia if they had to continue operating at greater expense under continued stricter federal standards.

City Council To Hear Report On Street Lighting Thursday

The Murray Common Council will hear a report on street lighting from a representative of General Electric at the council's meeting Thursday, Jan. 24. The meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. in the council chambers.

Also on the agenda are a report from the Murray Planning Commission on the denial of a rezoning request; a recommendation by Mayor Melvin B. Henley for an appointment to the Murray Housing Authority Board; a recommendation for employment of a patrolperson in the police department by the Public Safety Committee; and a letter of resignation from James W. Coates Jr. of the police department.

proposed state legislation to restrict abortions.

Linda Scholle, representing the Kentucky Civil Liberties Union, said the legislation would comprise "un-constitutional restrictions on a woman's right of choice."

The targets are a so-called informed consent measure which would place additional requirements on women seeking abortions and their physicians, plus one which would ban use of public funds for abortions in Kentucky.

The press conference was sponsored by the Kentucky Women's Agenda Coalition.

The Senate approved by 34-2 a measure to exempt peace officers from a two-year residency requirement, and also from a requirement to file their photographs with county clerks—the last because, sponsors said, it would protect them in undercover investigations.

Also passed was a bill requiring an insurance company to pay 8 percent interest on insurance payments withheld from a policyholder during any arson investigation. The vote was 35-0.

Board Turns Down Request For Another Medical Staff Member

The Murray-Calloway County Hospital Board approved a recommendation by a board ad hoc committee that another medical staff member not be added to the board.

The action came at the Tuesday night board meeting.

County Judge-Executive Robert O. Miller, a member of the ad hoc committee along with Murray Mayor Melvin B. Henley and Jim Garrison, said the group felt one medical representative could speak efficiently for the medical staff.

It was added any medical staff member could attend the meeting. However, they could not take part in the voting of any board matters.

Currently, the chief of staff represents the medical staff at each meeting. He also has the power to vote in all board matters.

Dr. Russ Howard recently assumed the chief of staff position and a spot on the board from Dr. Bill Wilson.

Dr. C.C. Lowry, who attended the meeting, said he felt another doctor on the board could "help tremendously" and be "worthwhile." He added that, in his opinion, another doctor on the board would not "make that much difference in the voting" of board items.

The board currently is composed of 11 members, including the chief of staff. Members making up the board are appointed by various organizations in the city and county.

Concerning the new ambulance service, Stuart Poston, administrator, said it "started with a bang." He added that the service, after locating in the hospital Jan. 1, had 45 calls in the first 10 days.

Miller said he had been notified that one of the three new ambulances for the service would be ready to pick up today. He added a second would be ready before the end of the month.

The service currently is renting vehicles from the Angels of Mercy of Paducah, the private firm that provided the joint city-county ambulance service prior to the hospital assuming the responsibility.

Miller added that he mailed the first quarter payment of the county's $54,000 subsidy Tuesday and he would mail the second-quarter payment today.

The city pays an annual $36,000 subsidy for the service.

The board members set three percent of the total hospital operating cost as the dollar limit for charity care. Poston said the figure totals about $106,302.

Poston reported deficiencies pointed out in a recent fire marshal's inspection have been corrected. The deficiencies included not having a 48-inch front door, no sprinkler systems in storage areas and changing the emergency room door to out instead of in.

Recent construction work on the new wing has included plumbing, electricity and setting some inside walls, Poston said.

The board members gave some discussion concerning a procurement code for the hospital.

Howard stated the medical staff had not met yet in January. He added he felt everything was "status quo."

A motion was approved to turn down a rate increase request by Dr. Paul Scott, anesthesiologist. The board also approved a motion to have Scott run his office eight hours a day, Monday through Friday.

Poston reported two orthopedic surgeons from Montreal, John Goldberg and R. Raymond Cherette, will begin practice soon. Cherette is due around Feb. 1 while Goldberg is expected March 1.

Controller Danny Watters told the board admissions and operations were down during December 1979 while the average length of stay was up.

Miller, Jane Sisk, a board member; and Dr. Rob Williams were appointed to a committee to investigate to possibility of starting a hospital foundation.

In an executive session, land acquisition was discussed but no motions were made, Poston said.

TVA Director Reports Utility Could Lessen Future Rate Increases

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) — Tennessee Valley Authority director Bob Clement says the government utility may be able to lessen future rate increases by tightening its belt.

Clement said Tuesday that TVA statistics indicate to him that another rate increase is possible in 1980. Customers are to start paying an average 10.8 percent increase April 1 which the TVA board approved last August — over Clement's objection.

Clement said in a telephone interview that he is not certain whether another increase will come this year, or if one does, how much it would be.

"That's strictly speculation on my part," he said. "I'm just waving the flag and telling the board and the staff we've got to learn when to say no."

Clement, who joined the three-man board on Aug. 3, said he wants each department head to reduce his 1980 budget by five percent to stave off another increase.

"I want TVA to tighten its budget, because I know that other sectors of society are having to do the same."

TVA Chairman S. David Freeman said Tuesday that the utility is doing what it can to hold down expenses and keep rates in line. But he said annual rate increases are unavoidable, despite those efforts, because of rising fuel and operating costs.

He said TVA will be doing well to keep rate increases below double-digit inflation. "The issue isn't whether rates will go up, the issue is how much they'll go up," he told a reporter.

The April 1 rate increase actually took effect last Oct. 1, but the TVA board approved carrying over a $160 million power credit from 1979 to pay for the increase until April. Freeman and director Richard Freeman, who are not related, said in approving the carryover that it was a way TVA could pass on last year's cost benefits to customers.

Officials said the power credit resulted because heavy rainfall last year caused TVA's hydroelectric dam generators to be able to produce more electricity at a lower cost.

The agency also said that the Browns Ferry nuclear plant in northern Alabama generated more power than anticipated, and officials credited a stepped-up maintenance program with keeping TVA's older coal-fired power plants operating more than in the past.

"I think we've done a remarkable job," David Freeman said. "I think there are opportunities and we're working on them, but if you look at the numbers, there's no way we can overcome the need for rate increases."

TVA provides electricity for approximately 2.7 million customers, amounting to about eight million people, in Tennessee and parts of Kentucky, Virginia, North Carolina, Georgia, Alabama and Mississippi.

Bill Prompts Legislative Caution

By SY RAMSEY
Associated Press Writer

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Clerical mistakes happen in legislation, and the House has passed a bill which supporters say will make aides a lot more careful in the administrative process which leads to enactment of a law.

The measure, sent to the Senate, stipulates that if the final version is not identical to what the General Assembly passed, the bill is void.

"I don't understand," said Rep. Hoover Dawahre, D-Whitesburg. "For 200 years, we've gotten along without this piece of legislation."

Nonetheless, the House approved the bill 82-13.

One member recalled that in the 1978 session, his amendment to a bill was lost and another related bill there was an important error on her measure.

The House also passed Tuesday a so-called financial disclosure bill for insurance companies writing workmen's compensation policies in the state.

The measure, approved 93-2 and sent to the Senate, requires 14 specific items

Rainey's Day

Indestructible values are more and more important in this day and age. One of the indestructible values of this life is beautiful needle point. Jo (Mrs. Grogan) Roberts is probably one of the finest artists in the needle point field in this area.

She is using a new and unusual technique these days. Her friend, Annie Edwards of Paducah, showed her this silk canvas with tiny, tiny stitches.

Jo decided to try her hand with the silk canvas. One of the first things she needed for her equipment was a large magnifying glass, such as a jeweler wears. Jo also says Annie believes that the more you use and exercise your eyes, the better off you are, and it does seem to be working for them.

Jo's needle point art work in this new field will be finished soon, and we would all like a showing.

++++ Basketball fever is raging in Murray these days. Patsy (Mrs. George) Oakley, Judy (Mrs. Ed) Carroll and I were laughing with Coach Ron Greene on Sunday while we were watching the Super Bowl game at Buddy and Deanna Parker's. We told Ron all of us fans were totally worn out after coaching the hard fought game Saturday night with Middle. Even Catherine Oakley, Patsy and Dr. Oakley's small daughter, got into the act. When the last seven minutes were so heart stopping, Catherine told the Racer cheerleaders to "pray-it works." We fans miss Kenny Hammonds and Gary Hooker, and are anxiously awaiting Gary's recovery.

Speaking of the Parker home, Deanna collects primitive antiques, mostly in pines, old maple, ash, and she also has some beautiful yew captain's chairs. She says most primitives are not found in this part of the country, but up east is where they are, such as Pennsylvania Dutch.

Beverly and Marshall Garland made it home in time for the Parker's party, from their exciting rain-storm trip to Hawaii.

++++ Steve Trevathan is home for about six weeks to do an internship under Dr. Hal Houston. With Murray's new medical facilities, I'm sure it's a first rate opportunity for Steve to be here working. Steve's mother, Margaret, is a great cook, so that also adds to the pleasure of being home.

++++ Conserving energy has become a national priority. One way you can do your part in the kitchen is by investing in an electric skillet. Home economists by Lawry's foods suggest this convenient appliance for preparing one dish meals and casseroles, steam vegetables and homemade soups, and breakfast foods. The home economist also suggested if you will heat a lemon, you'll get twice the amount of juice. Pop the fruit into a 250 degree oven for a few minutes before needed. The heat will soften lemon skin, thus making the squeeze more productive.

Exercise Party Held At Sigma Group Meeting

The Sigma Department of the Murray Woman's Club met at the club house on Monday, Jan. 14, at 6:30 p.m. for an "Exercise Party."

Following a brief business meeting, Norma Frank led the club members in a series of physical exercises designed to trim and shape the body. In addition, Mrs. Frank stressed to the members the need for good nutritional habits as well as physical activity on a regular basis. Mrs. Frank is a physical education teacher at Robertson Elementary School and a Sigma member.

Hostesses for the occasion were Dean Poston, Judy Payne, Judy Muehleman, Georgianna Moffitt, and Mildred Robertson.

HEALTH

Training your bowel

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Please send me your information on spastic or irritable colon. I'm 52 years old and have had all kinds of X rays taken for the past 10 years. The results have always been the same. Can't find anything. I wish the doctor could examine me when the pain is there. I'm sure all people feel the same way. At the present time I'm taking Librax and find it most helpful. Also I had my 10th child at age 43 and would like to know if Mother Nature is still out to get me. DEAR READER — I am sending you The Health Letter number 2-1, Irritable Or Spastic Colon And Constipation, that you requested. Spasms of the colon are muscle spasms, analogous in many respects to a cramp in the calf of your leg. The wall of your colon is a layer of muscle. The intermittent contraction and relaxation of this muscular tube moves the food residue along. The spasms or contractions that many people experience, of course, are not constant. It just seems to be the nature of things that the spasms don't occur when the patient is in the doctor's office. In that respect the human body is much like our automobiles and electrical appliances that have intermittent disorders.

Librax is very good medicine. It's a combination of Librium which is a tranquilizer and an antispasmodic. The latter blocks the nerves that stimulate the muscles in your colon to overcontraction or spasm. Gradually increase the bulk in your diet, particularly bran. You can get that from whole wheat cereals or if that doesn't appeal to you, you can mix ordinary crude bran in some other food of your choice such as apple sauce.

Many people with colon problems do a lot better if they eliminate coffee and all decaffeinated coffee products entirely. They should also eliminate tea and other drinks that contain caffeine. You might try it and see if that helps. Then there are people who are intolerant to milk but people who have this difficulty usually have constant problems as long as they're using milk or milk products. Training your bowel as suggested in The Health Letter I'm sending you also helps. Other readers who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Many people don't realize that when they switch their diet to include more bulk, the gas problem may be considerably worse for about three weeks. That's why I often recommend gradually easing into increasing the bulk in the diet. If you understand this in advance and can live through that three-week period, usually your colon functions better after that and the problem eases off.

Many women your age want to know if they can throw caution to the wind without expecting an addition to the family. The one almost positive rule I can give you is that if you're past 57, you can forget about it. As a more liberal rule, if you've gone through the menopause and not had a period for two years, the chances of your getting pregnant are almost nil. If your doctor examines you and determines on the basis of the examination that you've passed the childbearing phase, then you might be able to decrease the two-year period.

Dear Abby
By Abigail Van Buren

Messy Fridge Frosting Her

DEAR ABBY: I am writing about a problem that is perplexing to me. My husband is absolutely perfect in every respect except for one habit that I cannot seem to break him of.

Instead of throwing out empty food containers after he has emptied them, he puts them back in the refrigerator! I can't begin to tell you how many empty cartons, bottles and cans I have found in the refrigerator.

No amount of scolding, pleading or nagging seems to help. He offers no explanation for this screwball behavior. I think he's too lazy to walk to the trash can on the other side of the kitchen.

Can you, or your readers, offer any kind of a solution so that I can have a perfect husband?

FRUSTRATED

DEAR FRUSTRATED: You're crying with a loaf of bread under each arm and an empty ketchup bottle in the refrigerator. If a man must have but one flaw in an otherwise flawless character, I can think of none so harmless, inoffensive and easy to forgive as your husband's. Cherish this paragon of virtue. He's a candidate for sainthood!

DEAR ABBY: My problem may be unusual, but no more so than some of your other mail.

I am a mature young woman, and my problem concerns my height. I am 5 foot 4 inches and very slim. I would normally be quite happy with my height, but my dream has always been to be a top notch fashion model, and I need to be 4 or 5 inches taller to qualify.

Do you know of a doctor who would be willing to give me hormone shots to make me grow? If so, I would also like to know about possible side effects, fees, etc.

I respect your advice, and trust your judgment.

EAST COAST MODEL

DEAR MODEL: I consulted an endocrinologist. He replied, "If she is a normal, healthy, fully-developed young woman, hormone shots would not help. And no ethical physician would treat her with the promise of adding to her height."

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are not up on all the social graces, and we want to know what is proper:

When a man and woman are seated and an elderly lady approaches them and introduces herself, are both the man and woman supposed to stand? Or just the man? What if the elderly person were a man?

NO NAMES, PLEASE

DEAR NO NAMES: When an elderly person of either sex approaches a younger couple, both the man and the woman should stand — out of respect to age, not sex.

DEAR ABBY: In your reply to ANGRY IN SAN MATEO, you wrote that "love generates love."

The late Martin Luther King Jr. showed us that hate generates love, too. In his "Stride Toward Freedom" (New York: Harper & Brothers, 1958), he wrote:

"I can only close the gap in broken community by meeting hate with love. If I meet hate with hate, I become depersonalized, because creation is so designed that my personality can only be fulfilled in the context of community.... When I love, I restore community."

Cooper & Rogers Vows Solemnized At Church

The Lynn Grove United Methodist Church was the setting for the marriage ceremony uniting Miss Carol Denise Cooper and Terry Wayne Rogers. The vows were exchanged in a double ring ceremony, in an early December wedding with the Rev. Otis Jones of Aurora officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Joan Cooper of Hazel, and the late Lowell Cooper. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Carrol Martin Rogers of Murray.

The altar scene included a central heart shaped candelabrum, entwined with silk lily of the valley. On either side were spiral candelabra, also entwined with silk lily of the valley, and stands of sunburst arrangements of white gladioli, white mums and pink carnations. The family pews were marked with hurricane lamps, pink bows and baby's breath.

The music was presented by Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Wilson of Murray.

Bride's Dress

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, wore a gown of white organza and chantilly lace over taffeta. The fitted bodice was defined at the waist with a wide band of lace. A Queen Anne neckline bordered in lace and tiny pearls, and full sheer bishop sleeves completed the effect. The full skirt was a cascade of ruffles and swept into a chapel-length train.

Her camelot headpiece of Venice lace held her veil of silk illusion, outlined in lace that matched her dress. She carried a bouquet of white roses, pink carnations and baby's breath.

Attending the bride were her sister, Mrs. Debbie Phillips, matron of honor, Miss Shelia Phillips, maid of honor, and Miss Stephanie Wyatt, bridesmaid. They wore gowns of pale pink quiana with matching long capes. The capes had hoods with deep pink fur surrounding them. Each carried a single burgundy rose surrounded by baby's breath, and pink and burgundy ribbons.

Miss Michelle Doron, niece of the groom, was the flower girl. She wore a burgundy velvet dress, with a hood surrounded by fur identical to the bridesmaids.

Serving as best man for the groom was Don Wilson of Murray. Groomsmen were Marty Carraway and Steve Rogers, brother of the groom, both of Murray. Ushers were Mike Cooper, brother of the bride, Hazel, Mark Rogers of Murray, and Joe Dan Taylor of Almo.

The groom wore an After Six Burgundy Marquis tuxedo with a pink ruffled shirt. The groom's boutonniere was a pink carnation with the center containing a tiny white rose from the brides bouquet. The groomsmen, ushers, and groom's father wore After Six Burgundy Regal tuxedos with pink ruffled shirts.

The groomsmen and the groom's father wore boutonnieres of pink carnations with baby's breath. The ring bearer, Jay Phillips, nephew of the bride, wore a tuxedo identical to that of the groomsmen.

Mrs. Linda Taylor and Mrs. Connie Beane presided at the guest register placed in the vestibule of the church. The table was overlaid with a white satin cloth and centered with a burgundy rose, greenery, and baby's breath in a bud vase.

Mrs. Cooper, the bride's mother, wore a floor length, blue quiana, sleeveless dress, under a matching sheer float. Mrs. Rogers, mother of the groom, wore a floor length dress of light blue quiana. The dress had a draped neckline with a matching jacket.

Both mothers wore corsages of white cymbidium orchids. Mr. and Mrs. George Taylor and Hafford Cooper, grandparents of the bride, and Mr. and Mrs. Elmo Fain, grandparents of the groom, were present at the wedding. The grandmothers were presented with corsages of white carnations and baby's breath and the grandfathers wore boutonnieres of pink carnation.

Mrs. Debbie Doron, sister of the groom, directed the wedding. Mrs. Doron, Mrs. Taylor, and Mrs. Beane at the register were each presented with a pink corsage.

Reception

Following the wedding, a reception was held at the Holiday Inn in Murray.

Serving the guests were Mrs. Clara Jean Paschall, Mrs. Margaret Enoch, Mrs. Myrna Phillips, Mrs. Sybil Barrow, Mrs. Yolonda Grooms and Mrs. Linda McCallon.

The bride's table was overlaid with a white satin cloth and centered with an arrangement of pale pink silk roses in an ivory bowl. On either side were crystal candle holders with pale pink candles. Crystal appointments were used.

The table held the traditional three tiered wedding cake which topped a lighted water fountain with water cascading down three tiers. The cake was decorated in pink roses and lattice work. Surrounding the cake at the base were greenery, angels, and burgundy flowers. The cake was topped with a gazebo containing a tiny bride and groom statuette. The table also held the finger sandwiches, mints, nuts and punch.

The groom's table was overlaid also with a white satin cloth and centered with an arrangement of pink velvet fruit and a tiny groom statuette in a white milk glass, designed by Mrs. Clovis Jones of Hazel. His cake, his favorite, was a German Chocolate, made by the bride. A top of it was a small John Deere tractor. Ham and biscuits were also served from the groom's table.

Rice roses were distributed to the guests by David Rogers, brother of the groom.

The couple left for a short trip to the Great Smoky Mountains National Park. They are now residing at their home on Murray Route 1.

Rehearsal Dinner

The groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carrol Martin Rogers, were hosts for the rehearsal dinner held at the Colonial House Smorgasbord. The tables were overlaid in white and the head table had a fall arrangement in the center of the table.

The bride and groom presented their gifts to the attendants.

JUDY GROGAN, Psychiatric Nurse with the Murray Mental Health Center and the Benton Mental Health Center, presented the program at the meeting of the Murray Business and Professional Women's Club held Thursday, Jan. 17, at the Triangle Inn. Slides showing the scope of operations of the Western Kentucky Regional Mental Health-Mental Retardation Board, Inc., which includes referrals to hospitals, outpatient services, family and group therapy, 24 hour crisis line and emergency services were shown by Mrs. Grogan. "This board covers nine counties in Western Kentucky and help is there when need is there. Emotional disorders are our No. 1 social problem and one out of ten persons will have this illness," the speaker said. Mrs. Grogan described her job as both challenging and frustrating. She said she prefers psychiatric nursing in the health centers as she is able to have a continuing relationship with the families. Her job also requires a working relationship with the courts. Each member completed a survey on the "Kentucky Whitehouse Conference on Families," which asked how government could help with family problems. Announcement was made of the winter board meeting of the Kentucky B&PW Clubs to be held Feb. 1 to 3 at Stauffers Inn, Louisville. Several local members plan to attend.

HEARTLINE

Heartline is a service for senior citizens. Its purpose is to answer questions and solve problems — fast. If you have a question or a problem not answered in these columns, write Heartline, 114 E. Dayton St., West Alexandria, Ohio 45381. You will receive a prompt reply, but you must include a stamped, self-addressed envelope. The most useful replies will be printed in this column.

HEARTLINE: My father passed away last September. It took us over two months to gather up important papers and documents. Many, we still have not found.

We know there was a particular insurance policy, but we cannot find it and Mother does not remember the name of the company. We can't find the latest will that he was supposed to have drawn up.

Custody papers which gave my father custody of my nephew are also missing and now my mother is worried sick because my good-for-nothing sister is trying to get custody of my nephew again, because he inherited a great deal of money and property from my father.

I read your column regularly and I thought it might be a good idea for you to alert others to this potential problem.

T.R.
ANSWER: The need for people to organize important documents and inform their families where such documents are kept cannot be over-emphasized.

Safeguarding discharge papers, marriage certificates, or child custody evidence from fire, theft or loss could be one of the most important legacies a person can leave his or her survivors.

Other documents which should be protected and filed where family members can easily locate them are government and commercial life insurance policies, wills, deeds, titles, contracts, governmental papers and numbers, such as Social Security and V.A. numbers, naturalization papers, birth certificate, and any other papers or documents that you deem important to your family.

It is also wise to sit down and explain to your family any benefits that they will be entitled to upon your death. A few minutes spent organizing documents and informing your family can do much to avoid anguish during times of emotional stress.

HEARTLINE: I am an 18 year old high school student doing a report on aging in our country. I have gathered a lot of material from the library, but my mother and grandmother suggested that I write to Heartline.

One of my assignments is to obtain different conceptions of today's elderly people. I was surprised to find so many conceptions of our elderly from most of the people I have interviewed. Can you tell me in two paragraphs or less what your conception of our elderly is? — H.C.

ANSWER: Elderly Americans are basically active, healthy and experienced people who are capable of self-determination and continued valuable contribution to society.

The major problems which older people share are caused not by advancing age, but by society's false images and stereotypes of aging and the resulting policies and programs which grow out of and consequently perpetuate these stereotypes.

HEARTLINE: I had a virus in December, and the doctor gave me Penicillin shots in his office. Will Medicare cover the shots? K.W.

ANSWER: If you had already met your annual $60 deductible under Medicare Part "B", then they will cover 80 percent of the reasonable charges for the shots.

To learn all you will probably ever have to know about Medicare, our 1980 Guide to Medicare is available. To order, send $1.75 to Heartline's Guide to Medicare, 114 East Dayton St., W. Alexandria, Ohio 45381.

Inside Report

Bring Back The Battleship

WASHINGTON — The Navy has asked reluctant Defense Department civilians to bring the battleship New Jersey out of mothballs and put it into the Mediterranean as a symbolic show of U.S. resolve in the face of Soviet expansion.

Adm. Thomas B. Hayward, chief of naval operations, has made the secret request to Defense Secretary Harold Brown. The New Jersey was commissioned on Dec. 7, 1942, and fought in World War II, the Korean War and, for one year, in the Vietnam War. It has been in mothballs at Bremerton, Wash., since its last decommissioning Dec. 17, 1979. It is suited for arming with new sea-launched cruise missiles.

The New Jersey would free scarce aircraft carriers far from the Mediterranean for duty in the troubled Indian Ocean, but its main function would be to show the flag in the dramatic fashion only a battleship can achieve. Although Brown and other Pentagon civilians regard battleships as provocative and want to keep them in mothballs, events in Afghanistan may have softened their opposition. What's more, the Soviet Union is about to launch a huge new nuclear-powered battleship the size of the old U.S.S.

Missouri.

PAKISTAN: NEXT TARGET

Secret intelligence reports reaching Washington have pinpointed a Soviet invasion of Pakistan's border regions east of Afghanistan "within the next four weeks," raising the spectre of renewed Russian aggression and the question of how the United States will react.

Although the Soviet move will be explained in Moscow as a brief incursion to clean out "nests" of "imperialist saboteurs" operating in Afghanistan from Pakistan border bases, it actually will be another invasion across the boundary of a sovereign state. If the U.S. does not retaliate it risks new identification as a paper tiger.

A footnote: Short of military action from U.S. carriers in the Indian Ocean, President Carter might reinstate the military draft. Administration officials say, however, that the mood of the country is still very anti-draft, even though there has been a large increase in sentiment for much higher military spending.

ADA VS. CHURCH

The liberal Americans for Democratic Action (ADA) has made an informal and unannounced decision not to support the difficult fight for reelection of one of its habitual favorites: Sen. Frank Church of Idaho, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

"We just think he has been acting too much like a conservative," ADA National Executive Director Leon Shull told us. The last straw was Church's vote against Senate confirmation of Abner Mikva, the highly respected Democratic congressman from Illinois, as a judge on the U.S. Court of Appeals in Washington. Church has made no bones in private that his vote was intended to placate the gun lobby, a powerful political force in Idaho that opposed gun-controller Mikva's confirmation.

A footnote: The National Committee for an Effective Congress (NCEC) is an appalled at Church's Mikva vote as the ADA but will support him anyway. It considers his conservative Republican foe, Rep. Steven Symms, as infinitely worse. NCEC lists Church as the most vulnerable of the Senate candidates it supports.

NO CHINA CARD, YET

President Carter flatly told congressional leaders in a hush-hush briefing on the Soviet crisis recently that "I am not going to play the China card" at this time.

Carter and State Department diplomats have been publicly downplaying the U.S.-China connection for fear of further angering Moscow, but this was the first time Carter flatly has gone on record before the congressional leaders. He did not elaborate and there were no hard questions, but the "no China card, yet" statement ruled out all possibility of U.S. military supplies for this country's big, new friend in Asia.

Carter apparently reasons that the U.S.-China future is too uncertain to risk building up that potential superpower with U.S. military technology and weapons. If the threat from Moscow expands, Carter and the U.S. may have no choice but to accept that risk against the nearer risk of the Soviet power grab.

VENGEANCE BY FORD

The implacable animosity still felt by Gerald R. Ford toward Ronald Reagan over their 1976 struggle was demonstrated when the former president impromptu personal friends to make contributions to an anti-Reagan ballot initiative.

The money was used to collect signatures for a proposed voter referendum on ending California's winner-take-all Republican primary, which Reagan has counted on for the biggest state's entire delegation. Proportional representation would cut into Reagan's home state delegates — and prestige.

One visitor to Ford's home in Rancho Mirage, Calif., who was solicited for funds was California industrialist Leonard Firestone. A former Reagan backer who later broke with him, Firestone not only contributed to the fund but sought contributions from his friends.

Today In History

By The Associated Press

Today is Wednesday, Jan. 23, the 23rd day of 1980. There are 343 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On Jan. 23, 1973, President Richard Nixon announced a cease-fire ending the Vietnam war to take effect in four days.

On this date:

In 1937, 17 communist leaders confessed in Moscow they had conspired with Leon Trotsky to undermine the regime of Josef Stalin.

In 1920, Holland refused to surrender former Kaiser William of Germany to the Allies, who wanted to punish him as a war criminal.

In 1945, during World War II, Soviet forces reached the Oder River.

In 1968, North Korea seized the American Navy ship Pueblo and held its crew as spies.

Ten years ago, Israeli troops were stripping all Egyptian military equipment from the island of Shadwan in the Gulf of Suez. They had captured the island the day before.

Five years ago, Defense Secretary James Schlesinger said the United States could sustain Israel through another Mideast war. He also said such a war wouldn't last more than three weeks.

Last year, President Carter, in his State of the Union message, called on the Senate to ratify the still-incomplete SALT treaty, and asked the country to unite to fight inflation.

Today's birthday: Supreme Court Justice Potter Stewart is 65.

Thought for today: Govern a great nation as you would cook a small fish. Don't overdo it — Confucius (555-479 B.C.)

Sgt. Herchell C. Johnson, brother of Clyde and Freeman Johnson of Murray, was killed in action in France Oct. 7, 1944. Sgt. Johnson was reared in Murray and attended Murray High School. He had campaigned in Tunisia and died in the Southern France invasion. Both his parents were deceased at the time of his death.

Pvt. Edward West, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. West of Almo, died from wounds he received in the Battle of Leyte, Philippine Islands, Nov. 10, 1944. A week before he died his parents had received a War Department message that their son was slightly wounded. Later information crisply stated he had died from the injuries. Pvt. West and the family moved to the county from Dover, Tenn., prior to his entry in the armed forces.

H. Gene Cole, reported missing in action Sept. 10, 1944, was revealed by the War Department to be a prisoner of war, according to his aunt, Mrs. Willie Jetton of Murray, Route 3, who received the information November 18.

Pfc. Herman Maynard, former student at New Concord High School and the son of Mr. Ethel Maynard of Benton and Otis Maynard of Missouri, drowned at Miami Beach, Fla., Nov. 27, 1944, while on recreation and recovery from a strenuous campaign in the South Pacific where he was wounded in action and received the Bronze Star.

The week of Dec. 7, 1944, second anniversary of Pearl Harbor, was one of tragedy for families in Calloway County. Three of her sons were reported killed in action and one missing in action. The dead were Pfc. Eugene D. Hutchens, Pfc. Lloyd Hodge and Pvt. Edward West, and missing in action was Lieut. Randall Patterson.

Pfc. Hutchens was killed in France Nov. 16, 1944, according to a message to his wife Mrs. Catherine Nichols Hutchens of Hazel. The 20 year old infantryman was the son of Burt Hutchens, and the father of baby Eugene Fay Hutchens. He had been overseas four months at the time of his decease.

Pfc. Lloyd Hodge was reported killed in action in the Battle of Leyte, Philippine Islands, on Nov. 30, 1944, as a member of the American invasion to recapture the islands. The young soldier was enroute to the Pacific area when the Japanese attacked Pearl Harbor, consequently the troopship was temporarily returned to home port. He was the son of Mrs. Jeff Hodge of Cherry and had been in service for three years before his battlefield death.

Pfc. J. C. Lamb had been missing in action since 1944, however the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Lamb, were heartened when they received word several months later he was a prisoner of war in Germany.

Shoppers Shocked At Milk Price Drop

By MARIA BRADEN

Associated Press Writer

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Kentucky shoppers, accustomed to steadily rising prices, got a shock earlier this month when they discovered the price of milk had dropped at several stores.

But if the reduction was a surprise, it was a pleasant one.

The price of groceries, gasoline and other staples has increased by at least a few cents each week.

However, unlike most other commodities, the price of milk is kept high in part because it is regulated by a state agency.

When A&P Food Stores slashed milk prices a couple of weeks ago — setting off a chain reaction that went from Louisville to Harlan and back to Paducah, it was quickly reprimanded by the Kentucky Milk Marketing and Antimonopoly Commission.

The panel is responsible for enforcing a 1960 state law that prohibits businesses from selling milk below the "cost of doing business." It generally figures that cost as the retailer's invoice price for milk plus operating costs.

Consumer interests have long questioned the requirement that operating costs be added to the milk price, contending that it prevents economic competition.

However, powerful milk industry interests have argued that stores would price milk — a staple for most households — below cost in order to lure customers. Industry spokesmen have said that would eventually reduce raw milk prices at the expense of the farmer.

They also have contended that removal of existing controls would allow large chains to undersell small retailers and price them out of business.

Unsuccessful attempts have been made to repeal state controls on milk prices in past sessions of the legislature, and another effort is being made this year. The measure is one of the first major consumer-related bills of the 1980 session.

In light of rising costs and increased public concern with inflation, the sponsors — state Sens. Tom Easterly, D-Frankfort, and Danny Meyer, D-Louisville — believe the bill may finally have a chance.

Legislation has been introduced in past legislative sessions on a related subject — to repeal the automatic state mark-up on liquor — with the same lack of success.

So far this year, no one has taken up that cause.

Bible Thought

Then Philip opened his mouth, and began at the same Scripture, and preached Jesus unto him. — Acts 8:35.

"A word spoken in due season is like apples of gold in baskets of silver." Especially is this true of the Word of God as it witnesses to one seeking salvation. The Bible is always the best witness to the Gospel.

Court Decision To Be Appealed

By HERBERT SPARROW
Associated Press Writer
FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Despite admitted long odds, the state Board of Elementary and Secondary Education is going to appeal a decision by the Kentucky Supreme Court limiting state control of private schools.

The state board voted Tuesday to ask the U.S. Supreme Court to review the Oct. 9 decision.

Attorney General Steve Beshear, who met with the board for about one hour in closed session, agreed to take the case to the nation's highest court.

Beshear conceded in an interview that the case would be a difficult one. He said the state's largest hurdle would be getting the Supreme Court to agree to look at the decision.

Beshear said the state Supreme Court made an appeal to federal courts difficult when it based its ruling entirely on provisions of the state constitution.

"It is going to be a difficult case because the Kentucky Supreme Court based it on state constitutional grounds," Beshear said.

Beshear said all arguments before the U.S. Supreme Court would have to be based on alleged violations of rights protected by the U.S. Constitution.

However, Beshear said he does feel there are several avenues of argument available in trying to persuade the federal court to review the decision, but he would not elaborate on them.

Beshear said later that one of them might be denial of equal educational opportunities to the students attending private schools.

"It is my feeling and the feeling in education circles in general that if the decision stands it will create real difficulties in trying to render quality education to the children of Kentucky," Beshear said.

The state Supreme Court held that the state has only limited control over the operation of private schools, mostly in the area of safe physical facilities. It specifically excluded state control over curriculum, teacher qualifications and textbooks.

The ruling was the result of a 1977 suit filed by several parents and ministers associated with "Christian schools and the Kentucky Christian Schools Association."

The suit was filed after the state board sought truancy action against parents sending their children to 20 Christian schools the board had refused to accredit for not meeting minimum state standards.

Beshear said former Gov. Bert Combs, who handled the state's case in the state courts, would help on the case.

Kentucky has 90 days from Dec. 18, when the state Supreme Court refused to rehear the case, to file a writ of certiorari — in effect a request to review the case.

Deputy Attorney General Robert Chenoweth, who will head the appeal, said the case could take several years to decide if the Supreme Court agrees to hear it.

"It will be at least in the next term of the court," Chenoweth said. "It will be a long way down the pike."

TVA Power Customers May See Rate Increase

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) — Tennessee Valley Authority power customers may see another rate increase in 1980 unless the federal utility does some belt tightening, TVA director Bob Clement said Tuesday.

Clement, who joined the three-man TVA board last Aug. 3, said he wants each agency department head to reduce his 1980 budget by 5 percent to stave off another rate increase for this year.

S. David Freeman, TVA chairman, said Tuesday the utility is doing what it can to hold down expenses and keep rates in line. But he said that despite the efforts, annual rate increases are unavoidable because of rising costs for fuel and operations.

Clement said cost estimates compiled by the TVA staff have convinced him that another increase may come this year. He said he could not predict when the increase would come or how much it would be.

On April 1, ratepayers in TVA's seven-state service area are to begin paying for a 10.8 percent increase the TVA board approved last August — over Clement's objection. The increase took effect Oct. 1, but the board approved carrying over a $160 million power credit from 1979 to pay for the increase until April.

TVA provides electricity to approximately 2.7 million customers, amounting to about eight million people, in Tennessee and parts of Kentucky, Virginia, North Carolina, Georgia, Alabama and Mississippi.

Restricted Abortions Defeat Urged By Women

By MARIA BRADEN
Associated Press Writer
FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Supporters of a woman's right to have an abortion chose the seventh anniversary of the U.S. Supreme Court decision on abortion to urge defeat of proposed state legislation to restrict abortions.

Their comments were made Tuesday at a press conference sponsored by the Kentucky Women's Agenda Coalition, marking the anniversary of the high court ruling that said a woman has the right to decide whether or not to end her pregnancy.

Linda Scholle, representing the Kentucky Civil Liberties Union, said the proposed bills are "unconstitutional restrictions on a woman's right of choice."

She said House Bill 90, a so-called "informed consent" bill which would place additional requirements on women seeking abortions and their physicians, would place "harsh and burdensome restrictions on a woman's right to choose," and would interfere with the privacy accorded women under the 1973 Supreme Court decision.

House Bill 125, which would prohibit use of public funds for abortions in Kentucky, "would severely limit the access of indigent women to abortions, and thus unfairly burdens the poor," she said.

The bill would not allow public funding of abortions even where a mother's life is endangered by her pregnancy.

Tom Stickler, executive director of the Lexington-based Reproductive Freedom League, said legislators and elected officials "who refuse to respect the rights of all citizens to control and direct their own childbearing by enacting restrictive legislation or policies will be accountable to the citizens at the voting booth."

"We say today to all legislators: We're pro-choice — and we vote."

Representatives of the Louisville and Kentucky chapters of the National Organization for Women also stated their opposition to the proposed anti-abortion legislation and their support for freedom of choice.

The proposed anti-abortion bills have been assigned to the House Health and Welfare Committee for study.

Action May Permanently Close Maxey Flats Site

By HERBERT SPARROW
Associated Press Writer
FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — The Maxey Flats nuclear waste disposal site may be on its way to being permanently closed under legislation that is moving through the General Assembly.

Companion bills to require the Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection to work toward stabilizing the Fleming County site were approved Tuesday by House and Senate committees.

The legislation also would provide for strict procedures requiring extensive testing, public hearings and the approval of both the governor and legislature before the site could be reopened.

The state has stopped further burials of radioactive material at Maxey Flats. The site is maintained by Dames & Moore, a Lexington consulting firm under contract with the state.

The legislation was prepared by a special advisory panel which studied the problem of nuclear waste disposal in Kentucky, specifically the Maxey Flats site, during the past two years.

The Maxey Flats site has generated controversy since test results showed that radioactive water had migrated from burial trenches, where barrels of low-level radioactive waste are buried. Disposing of rain water which collects in the trenches also has presented problems.

Maintenance of the site consists of pumping the contaminated water out of the trenches, boiling it and reburial of the resultant sludge. The site is also monitored for leaks.

The state put Maxey Flats under the management of Dames & Moore last summer after cancelling a contract with Nuclear Engineering Co. of Louisville, which had managed the site since it was opened in 1963.

The legislative measures would provide $185,000 to cover the trenches with plastic and dry them out.

"I think it is a good buy for the state of Kentucky," said Rep. Pete Worthington, D-Ewing, chairman of the Special Advisory Committee on Nuclear Waste.

"The committee did not take the position that there should never be nuclear waste sites in Kentucky," Worthington said. "We want checks and balances in place so they are only put in Kentucky if and when procedures are absolutely safe."

"We made a horrible mistake in the 1960s," Worthington said. "There weren't proper checks and balances. Maxey Flats should never be reopened again until it is proven safe."

The committee also has proposed a resolution calling for creation of a special study commission to develop a policy on the future disposal of nuclear waste in Kentucky.

Sen. Ed Ford, D-Cynthiana, expressed concern about the reluctance of all states, to accept nuclear waste from other states.

He said the large volume of low-level radioactive material generated by such sources as hospital X-rays, must be disposed of, and that Kentucky may have to dispose of its own waste in the future.

District Judge Rubin Cuts Short Testimony On Supper Club Fire

COVINGTON, Ky. (AP) — U.S. District Judge Carl Rubin cut short further testimony about the night of the fire at the Beverly Hills Supper Club and directed defense attorneys to stick to the issues in a suit against the aluminum, wire and electrical receptacle industry.

Rubin refused to allow Eugene Horton, principal of the Edgewood Middle School, Trenton, Ohio, to describe his dramatic escape from the fire May 28, 1977 in which 165 died and 50 were injured.

Rubin urged attorneys for

Sen. John Berry, D-New Castle, agreed that a policy has to be developed concerning nuclear waste.

But he said the legislation provides a good policy "at a time when we don't know what we are dealing with and don't know where sites should be."

Derby Breakfast May Be Different This Year

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — The traditional governor's Derby Breakfast will be different this year, though Gov. John Y. Brown's office has denied a report that it would be called off.

The breakfast has been held for the past 40 years on the Executive Mansion grounds on the morning of the Kentucky Derby.

It has grown since 1936, when Gov. A.B. "Happy" Chandler and his wife, Mildred, started the tradition with a breakfast for about 100 friends.

Last year, it drew nearly 9,000 people to a $7,000 blue-and-white tent set up by the Parks Department on the mansion grounds, and Brown feels it is time to cut down, press secretary Frank Ashley said Tuesday.

"He does feel that it's gotten out of hand, and that the expense has gotten out of hand," Ashley said.

The Browns are considering cutting the guest list to less than 1,000 and moving the event to another location, he said.

The Kentucky Horse Park at Lexington has been mentioned as a possible site, but several are being considered, Ashley said.

The State-Journal in Frankfort quoted informed sources Tuesday as saying Brown and his wife, Phyllis, were calling off the breakfast this year for two reasons: Mrs. Brown's pregnancy, and major repairs that will be under way on the mansion.

Derby day will be May 3 this year, and Mrs. Brown is expecting the couple's first child in late June or early July.

A major renovation of the mansion is expected to start in mid-February and last several months. The Browns have said they may stay at their Cave Hill residence in Lexington during the renovation.

School Sweethearts To Marry After 53 Years

MIDLAND, Mich. (AP) — They hadn't seen each other in more than half a century, but now 72-year-old Roland Champagne is going to marry his high school sweetheart, Evelyn Galarno.

And Miss Galarno, 71, says the hardest part will be leaving the nursing home where she has lived happily for the past eight years.

The two had broken off their engagement in Bay City 53 years ago after Champagne started work as a salesman, he said. "I started to travel" and broke away from the area, he explained.

Champagne married and raised six children, while Miss Galarno remained single, devoting herself instead to caring for her ailing parents.

But his wife died last year, so he decided to rekindle his lost love.

Champagne, who retired in 1965 from a General Motors Corp. Chevrolet plant in Saginaw, spent nearly a month looking through telephone books from the Saginaw area. He said he cabled about 20 hospitals and nursing homes before finding Miss Galarno in November at the Provincial House nursing home in Midland.

She was "healthy, beautiful and," he said with a wink, "well-shaped."

After he popped the question, it took Miss Galarno a month to make up her mind.

"He was so good to me. That just won me over," she said.

They set Feb. 2 as the date for the wedding. After a Florida honeymoon, the two will live in Champagne's home in a Saginaw suburb, but Miss Galarno said her husband-to-be has promised to drive her back regularly to the nursing home to visit her friends.

Browns' Appearance Raises Questions

An AP Analysis
By SY RAMSEY
Associated Press Writer

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — The appearance of Gov. and Mrs. John Y. Brown Jr. at the Super Bowl festivities on television has raised a question that will come up again and again until the new administration formulates a policy on who should pay for the travel and expenses.

"We're sensitive to this problem and we're going to do what is right and proper," said Frank Ashley, press secretary to Brown.

Mindful of the damaging controversy that surrounded former Gov. Julian Carroll's use of state planes for vacation trips, Brown is proceeding with extreme caution.

It's hardly a question of whether he can foot the tab—Brown is a multimillionaire. It's a question of whether the commonwealth benefits from a specific trip in some fashion, even if in the process the governor or his wife enjoy the activities.

In the latest instance, a commercial air journey to Los Angeles and accommodations at a plush hotel, the administration has reached no decision yet.

In fact, the governor asked several news reporters that he ran into if they think he should pay. His implication in the conversations was that the state would reap national publicity.

Yet, the Super Bowl television appearances were so brief that neither Brown nor his wife, the former Phyllis George, an erstwhile Miss America, had much opportunity to promote Kentucky, at least in specifics.

"Obviously, that was a very packed show and there was little time for any interviews with anyone," Ashley said.

He said Brown was on hand as the Kentucky governor by invitation.

"In many cases, when he is asked to appear, he doesn't know if they will have him on for 30 minutes or two minutes," Ashley said.

The governor's office has been consulting with Finance Department officials on the matter.

"We've just started working on a policy," the press secretary said.

Finance Secretary George Atkins, who was severely critical of Carroll's state-paid journeys to southern climes when he was state auditor, has been mellow in regard to the new governor.

"Any legislation on aircraft use should be broad enough to allow administrative flexibility," Atkins said.

Brown, who has been paying for several recent trips to New York City and California, acknowledged that it is difficult to draw a fine line in the issue.

That's because the argument goes beyond the administration's standard response that Kentucky benefits from national exposure by the Browns.

For one thing, do such appearances attract as many tourists, say, as would a well-planned state promotional program through the media?

For another, is it enough to claim that the commonwealth's image automatically is being uplifted when the governor and first lady show up elsewhere?

Whatever the outcome of the administration's agonizing about who pays for the Brown travels, the governor's pronounced doubts are quite a contrast to Carroll's attitude that he would fly at state expense wherever and whenever he wished.

'Didn't Play Well Enough To Win

Tigers Outshot By Marshall County

By STEVE BECKER

Sports Writer

"We just simply didn't play well enough to win," was how Murray High coach Cary Miller summed up his squad's 79-72 loss to Marshall County last night.

"We may still have been celebrating our win over Calloway last week. We didn't shoot well and they did; plus they were very aggressive whereas we were having trouble establishing ourselves."

Marshall County outshot the Tigers 57 to 46 percent from the floor, including 11-13 in the second quarter when they grabbed the lead for good. Murray fared no better from the free throw line as they managed to connect on just 20 of 35 shots.

A couple of converted one-and-ones or a couple of back-to-back attempts could have made the difference for the Tigers.

"When you shoot like that from the line you can't expect to win," Miller lamented. "We were very shaky on our free throws all night long and it cost us in the end."

Murray never really got completely into the ballgame as the Tigers started off with a three-of-15 shooting effort from the field in the first quarter. Luckily for the Tigers, their host was almost as cold as the Lawmen could gain just a 11-9 edge at the end of the first period.

Both teams opened up considerably in the second frame with Marshall County outscoring the Tigers 26-25 during the period to take a 37-34 lead into the lockerroom.

Murray did a good job of getting the ball into its big men during the period as Howie Crittenden and Todd Bradshaw threw a fistful of lob passes over the Marshall defenders. Alternating centers Greg Latto and Robin Roberts converted the passes into scores as the two big men combined for 14 of Murray's second stanza points.

Both teams lapsed back into their shaky shooting habits in the third period with Marshall County able to expand its lead to seven, at 55-48, heading into the final quarter. Roberts popped in five more of his team-high 15 points in the stanza to keep the Lawmen within sight.

With no particular Marshall able to find the groove in the period, the Lawmen simply went to balanced attack. Seven different Marshals scored during the frame to allow Marshall County to pad its advantage.

The Tigers fell behind by as many as eleven points early in the fourth quarter but Miller's charges were not so easily shaken. Led by the outside shooting of Bradshaw and Crittenden, Murray pulled to within two points of the Marshals three times, the last time at 64-62 with 3:32 left in the contest.

The Tigers couldn't get over the hump however and succumbed to their own poor free throw shooting and propensity for committing the turnover. The Lawmen hit 10 of the 14 free throws that they were awarded in the final frame to nail the lid on the Tiger's coffin.

Besides Roberts' team-high total, the Tiger scoring attack was led by Crittenden and Bradshaw who popped in 14 points apiece in the losing effort. Nick Swift and Latto evenly divided 18 points as the Murray record falls to 9-6 for the season.

The Marshall County junior varsity grabbed a 16-4 lead at the end of the first period and held off a late Tiger comeback to make it a clean sweep for the hosts, 46-34. The Marshals' Anderson led all scorers with 18 points as the burly center simply outmuscled the much thinner Tigers.

Murray trailed 35-21 at the third stop but, paced by the hot-shooting of Bruce Taylor and Stuart Alexander, the locals battled back to within five, at 37-32, with 3:36 left in the game. Anderson halted the Murray surge with eight straight points as the Lawmen coasted to the win.

Taylor paced the Tiger scoring with 12 points. Alexander added nine in the losing effort.

Upset Season Not Too Surprising

Murray Lineup Has Gained Fortitude From Missing Key Players

It's one thing for a team to play according to its expectations when it has everyone healthy and is working toward the peak of its game.

It's a totally different picture when those expectations are disrupted by injuries, disabling the team not only in numbers but also in whatever cohesiveness its regular lineup has developed.

Murray State was on that course toward uniting a team when the disasters of the last two weeks struck. In order, center Michael Bates, forward Kenney Hammonds and forward Gary Hooker suffered serious injuries.

Bates is lost for an undetermined time after scope surgery on his knee. Hammonds is lost for the year with a broken bone in his foot. And Hooker was on the fringe of being lost after his eye injury.

But during their absences,

Murray won three games it was supposed to win. Take a note of that. Most teams would

David Hibbitts
Sports Editor
Murray Ledger & Times

have been totally crippled by injuries of the severity of these, causing them to lose those expected wins.

But Murray found its leadership Saturday night in a lineup of three freshmen, a previously inconsistent senior center and a junior college transfer. Now if that does not beat some kind of record for makeshift lineups, not much will.

When those players showed the recognition of what Middle Tennessee was doing in its zone to stop Murray's four-to-score offense and how it was shifting its offense away from its high scorer, Murray adjusted.

Just how much this experience has seasoned coach Ron Greene's team cannot be known until a few more critical games have been played. A return to the very same dependence it had on Hooker before his injury must not happen if the Racers are not to become complacent.

Hooker is probably the best all-around player in the Ohio Valley Conference, but his teammates have now discovered a little more about filling the missing links.

A combination of these factors could sweep Murray farther than anyone believed before the year began.

As President Carter prepares his State of the Union Address for tonight, it is also that time to present a state of college basketball address.

To almost no one's surprise, the season has been rich with surprises. Never before have so many conferences been as balanced from top to bottom as they are this year.

For example, UCLA's reign in the Pacific Eight is drawing to a close as Oregon State pulls steadily away from the Bruins. And Kentucky, one of the choices for this year's national championship, cannot seem to get by Southeastern Conference foe Tennessee.

The Atlantic Coast Conference is a virtual scramble, with favorites Duke and North Carolina having trouble with everybody else in the conference.

At least in the Ohio Valley Conference, a favored home team is still a more predictable winner. But not far down the road, that pattern will eventually change too.

Let's look at some of the more bizarre, but almost commonplace happenings this year:

It started off smoothly enough as Associated Press favorite Indiana won its first four games, holding onto No. 1 until Kentucky took a not too unexpected win over the Hoosiers at Rupp Arena. But IU's Mike Woodson was injured for the season and Indiana has not been the same since.

Then Duke was thought to be entrenched in the "hot spot" until...bang, bang, the Blue Devils were knocked off by Clemson in overtime and then soundly on their own court by North Carolina.

That should have been Kentucky's golden opportunity to take over, but the Wildcats practically mirrored Duke, losing a tight game at Tennessee and then being thrashed at home by Alabama.

Top-ranked teams have been upset before in the history of college basketball, but never with the frequency that they are dropping this year.

To get to the bottom of this quandary, perhaps it should be asked if there is such thing as an upset in college basketball anymore.

Listening to Vanderbilt's play-by-play announcer, Walt Adams, as the Commodores easily defeated then fourth-ranked and unbeaten Louisiana State earlier this month, one would believe that neither Vanderbilt nor anyone else had the capability of springing these frequent "shockers."

But the truth is that the state of college basketball is just the opposite. For practically the first time, it can be reasonably said that any major college team is capable of defeating any other on a given night.

Of course, Murray State will always play its share of Missouri-St. Louis and Roosevelt, and good teams like South Carolina will catch a Kentucky on a hot night and be annihilated. But those results are no longer a fair barometer of the scale of talent and coaching spreading around the country.

The intangibles of the game are returning in place of the scyscrapers, i.e., UCLA's Lew Alcindor and Bill Walton, as the preeminent factor.

The current top-ranked team, DePaul, is talented but does not have an extraordinary amount of height or discipline to make it a clearcut favorite for the NCAA title. What it does have is 66-year-old coach Ray Meyer, for whom that team will give its last ounce when the tournament arrives.

Then there were those nights when Kentucky and Tennessee defeated teams ranked in the top five in the country without some of their front line players.

What it amounts to is a pendulum hanging over the game, and whichever team is lucky enough to be in the right place by the end of the season will survive.

DePaul Plays Just Well Enough To Win...Again

By The Associated Press

"We played our usual game," said DePaul Coach Ray Meyer. "We got up on somebody and then die."

And still win...and win...and win.

The nation's only unbeaten major college basketball team made it 16 in a row Tuesday night but, like most games for the Blue Demons since they became No. 1 last week, it wasn't easy.

This time, Mark Aguirre scored 22 points and grabbed 10 rebounds to lead DePaul to a 57-54 road victory over Alabama-Birmingham. The Blue Demons stretched a 23-22 halftime lead to 15 points midway through the second half but UAB chopped it to 48-46 with 4:34 remaining. It was 54-52 with 35 seconds left before DePaul wrapped it up on a free throw by James Mitchem and two by Aguirre.

DePaul was one of only three teams in The Associated Press Top Twenty to see action Tuesday night. The others had it much easier — seventh-ranked Louisville trimming Marquette 76-63 and No. 9 St. John's, N.Y., whipping Manhattan 88-64.

For a team that received all 57 first-place votes in this week's AP poll, DePaul isn't making any big claims. Just the opposite, in fact. After all, since becoming No. 1 the Blue Demons have beaten Lamar by two points, Maine by 14, Louisiana State by five and UAB by three.

"When we had to play, we played," Meyer said. "We're still not a great team and I don't know how long we are going to be in this lofty position because we're going to lose eventually. Right now we're toying with fate."

Nah, never in doubt, said Aguirre.

"We were never concerned when it got close because we knew we could play when we had to play," he said. "I never felt the pressure, even when they cut the lead to two points. We knew we had to come through and we did."

Wayne McKay triggered a game-opening 15-4 burst with seven points and St. John's breezed past Manhattan for its 13th consecutive victory and 15th in 16 games. The Redmen opened a 29-11 bulge en route to a 43-29 halftime lead as McKay scored 13 of his 17 points before the intermission.

"We played good defense in the opening part of the first half and then let up a little," said Coach Lou Carnesecca. "Then we came back and played well in all aspects of the game in the second half. It was the type of game that enabled us to work on the things that got us this far."

Texas A&M used a key technical foul against Arkansas Coach Eddie Sutton and a successful delay game to defeat the Razorbacks 45-39 and take undisputed possession of first place in the Southwest Conference. The Aggies are 6-0 to 5-1 for Arkansas and Texas Tech.

Violent Neighbors Compared To Russians In Afghanistan

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

There is this guy who lives in the neighborhood. Most of the other neighbors know little about him or his family. He keeps his windows boarded up and rarely lets his kids play with the other kids on the block.

One day this rather secretive fellow — let's call him Mr. Steelteeth — bursts into the home of another neighbor, the Afghans. He wrecks the place, shoots the head of the house, starts killing and pillaging.

As if this weren't enough, he begins making threatening gestures to the other neighbors.

Down the street, Mrs. Whitebeard addresses her husband.

"The Steelteeths have invited us over for a game of bridge," she says. "Don't you think it would be nice if we accepted?"

"Heavens, no, you don't want any truck with those people, do you?" the husband replies, "not after what they did to the Afghans."

"Oh, that doesn't matter," counters Mrs. Whitebeard. "The Steelteeths play a lovely game of bridge. How they spend their idle time is no concern of mine."

This not-so-far-fetched fabrication is illustrative of the present Olympic crisis.

Does anyone want to fraternize and break bread with a neighbor who is guilty of such brazen acts of violence?

It's a case of putting the nation's ultimate welfare above their own personal interests, and they're to be congratulated for their wisdom and patriotism.

Yet there remains a hardcore of dissidents, including some of the top echelon of the U.S. Olympic Committee, who continue to sing that obsolete refrain: "Politics and sports shouldn't mix — on to Moscow and the Olympics!"

It is reassuring that many of Uncle Sam's top Olympic athletes, such as Al Oerter and Dwight Stones, have gone on record as saying that if the president orders a boycott of the Moscow Games the athletes should abide by it.

Politics? They speak of it as blithely as if it concerned only a matter of ideology. Politics has nothing to do with the issue. It is survival. It is a matter of facing up to a possible nuclear holocaust.

Who said so? No less authority than the White House, which intimated that if it came to a US-USSR confrontation the United States would be compelled to resort to atomic weapons.

While there should be sympathy for those athletes who have worked so hard for this one shot at glory, it is naive to say that they would be denied on such a flimsy excuse as "politics."

In recent years that has become ludicrous. Adolf Hitler turned the 1936 Games in Berlin into an extravaganza promoting Aryan supremacy and used them as a springboard to inflame the world. The Russians invaded Hungary and Czechoslovakia during Olympic years — 1956 and 1968.

The Olympic Games have grown too big and lost their original concept. They are professionalized, overly commercialized, fueled by national aggrandizement, infested with cheating and dope.

Forget Moscow. Take a break. Let others get together and restructure the Games in the dream of their French founder, Count de Coubertin, who sought to foster "international good will."

Sleep Lost As Indoor Season Approaches

By DENNIS POLLITTE
MSU Sports Information

The month of January is over and Murray State track coach Bill Cornell is having trouble sleeping. Can the indoor track season be far behind?

The reason for Cornell's restlessness is simple — the Racers are set to open their 1980 track schedule Saturday in the Illinois Invitational at Champaign, Ill. The Murray State coach said he is enthusiastic about competing in the 12-team meet.

"We're anxious to get the season underway to see what we really do have," Cornell said this week. "I'm nervous for the first meet. It's going to show us what we've got."

Among the teams scheduled to compete are: Illinois, Illinois State, Lincoln, Middle Tennessee State, Northeast Missouri State, Northern Illinois, Northwestern, Western Kentucky, Cincinnati, Kentucky State and Louisville.

"It's a good meet," Cornell said. "They've got probably the best track we'll run on all year. This is always our first meet every year."

Entering his 13th year as track coach at Murray State, Cornell said he is not superstitious about his team's chances. In fact, he feels that 1980 could be his year.

"Number 13 was lucky for Terry Love (Murray's All-American football player); maybe it'll be lucky for me," quipped the Racers coach. "We really feel like we've got a shot at the (Ohio Valley Conference) indoor and outdoor championships."

"Everything will have to click, though. We know we've got capabilities. It's just going to take staying away from sickness and injury. And everybody pulling their load."

The Murray State coach said he is also excited about the 22 new faces on his squad this year.

"We have 19 freshmen, two junior college transfers and one transfer from Eastern Kentucky University," Cornell said. "It's one of the better recruiting classes we've had. This year we've probably got the most balanced team we've ever had. We recruited hard."

Joining these newcomers will be a host of outstanding lettermen from last year's track that finished third in the OVC indoor meet and fourth in conference outdoor competition.

Heading the list is Jerry Odlin, who earned NCAA Division I All-America honors in the three mile last year. A native of London, England, he was also named the OVC's most outstanding indoor performer.

Odlin holds the school record for the outdoor 5,000 meters (13:51.7), outdoor 10,000 meters (28:56.2) and the indoor three mile (13:26.6).

"Jerry's an outstanding track man," Cornell said about his junior. "We hope he gets a little better each year."

Senior Richard Charleston, who hails from Essex, England, returns after setting school records in two events. He was clocked at 8:42.0 in the two mile and 8:46.0 in the steeplechase.

Everton Cornelius, a junior from St. Johns, Antigua, will be back in the long jump and sprints. He is the school indoor and outdoor record holder in the long jump, having been taped at 25.0 in the latter event.

Cornell will also have another outstanding middle distance runner coming back in senior Mitchell Johnson, who was the OVC 880 indoor champion last year. He also placed second in the conference outdoor 800 event.

David Rafferty, a senior from Essex, England, returns in the 1,000, after qualifying for the Nationals in that event last year. His best time was 2:10.2.

Senior Stan Simmons, the OVC's outdoor shot put champion, will bolster the Murray State field events. He has a career best throw of 53-3 1/2 in the shot put and has sailed the discus 150-3.

One familiar face missing from the Murray State squad will be All-America miler, David Warren, who is back home in Essex, England.

"He's sitting out this year, training for the British Olympic squad," Cornell said. "He's hoping to make it in the steeplechase."

The Racers coach said he expects Warren to return next season to complete his senior year at Murray State.

Warren is just one of several outstanding British athletes that Cornell, who is also from England, has been able to lure to Murray State.

"We started getting kids from there in 1975," the Racers coach said. "It's been a pipeline."

Cards Give Crum 200th Win As Marquette Falls

By The Associated Press

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Midway through the second half, Marquette looked fully capable of spoiling Louisville Coach Denny Crum's bid for his 200th basketball coaching victory.

Marquette led 41-40 with 12:24 to play, but that proved to be the high point for the Warriors, who fell victim to a 16-2 spurt by the seventh-ranked Cardinals as Louisville went on to grab a 76-63 verdict Tuesday night. The win boosted Louisville's record to 14-2.

Marquette Coach Hank Raymonds, whose club shipped to 9-6 for the season, gave Louisville's defense much of the credit.

"At one point, it took its toll when Louisville scored eight straight points," Raymonds said.

Raymonds said the Warriors could have "hung in there a little longer but we started going after them. We could have kept the score respectable."

Raymonds questioned Louisville's outside shooting ability, claiming that Darrell Griffith would be hard to replace if he needed a rest. Griffith led Louisville with 23 points.

But Raymonds did say that, compared with last year's edition, the current Louisville team has "more poise and more balance. They're a good ball team."

Crum said that "basketball is a game of spurts and the right one came along for us tonight."

Poncho Wright put Louisville in front for good at 42-41 with an 18-foot shot from the corner. Rodney McCray hit a bucket and Wright came back with another to make it 46-41, and the game was over.

Wright, a reserve, finished with 15 points. Top man for Marquette was "Terrell Schlundt with 17."

"We made a lot of silly errors, but we didn't lose our poise when the going got rough," Crum said. "They (Marquette) don't give you an inch. They're hacking, slapping and grabbing all the time...you've got to be careful. They just aren't easy."

Sports Contacts Between U.S.-U.S.S.R. Continue

By HAL BOCK
AP Sports Writer

Despite President Carter's call for a possible American withdrawal from the Summer Olympics in Moscow, sports contacts between the United States and the Soviet Union are continuing.

A United States boxing team left Tuesday night for a three-city exhibition tour of the Soviet Union, joining a team of American wrestlers already there for a tournament beginning later this week.

The 20-man boxing squad was delayed for nearly three hours before taking off from Dulles International Airport in Washington when ground personnel balked at servicing the flight as a protest to the Soviets' military intervention in Afghanistan.

Finally, after Soviet Aeroflot employees took over baggage handling and ticketing tasks which members of a local Teamsters union had refused to handle, the flight was able to leave.

The team is scheduled for matches in Moscow, Tbilisi, and Vilnius beginning Saturday and the American boxers were anxious to get on with their trip, despite a State Department request that they pass it up in view of recent events.

"I feel I want to go because politics shouldn't mix with sports," said Alex Ramos, a 156-pounder from New York.

"All the guys deserve to go because they've been training so hard and so long," said Lonnie Epps of Greenville, S.C.

Early today, a team of track and field athletes from the Soviet Union was scheduled to arrive in Portland, Ore., where they will compete Saturday, beginning a five-meet tour of the United States.

Another Soviet track and field team is scheduled to compete in Los Angeles, Albuquerque, N.M., Louisville, Ky., and Houston from Feb. 1-16. A Soviet hockey team is supposed to travel to Denver next week to begin training with exhibition games scheduled against Erie of the Eastern Hockey League Feb. 7 and the U.S. Olympic hockey team in New York Feb. 9.

The American wrestlers will compete in a tournament against the Russians Friday through Sunday at Tbilisi. A Canadian team has withdrawn from that event, although Pierre Trudeau, leader of Canada's Liberal party, said he does not support the boycott movement.

Trudeau said a boycott "will probably mean the end of the Olympics, but that may be what some countries want."

The United States Congress, convening its new session, was preoccupied with Carter's call for a possible postponement, cancellation or transfer of the Games to protest the Soviet action in Afghanistan.

Leaders in both the House of Representatives and the Senate rallied to support Carter. Speaker of the House Thomas P. O'Neill, D-Mass., said he hoped for Congressional approval by the end of the week of a resolution calling on American athletes to boycott the Games. Senate Majority Leader Robert Byrd, D-W. Va., said "an overwhelming majority" of the Senate would support a boycott.

There were three resolutions introduced in the

Celtics Sign Pete Maravich

By The Associated Press

The Boston Celtics signed Pete Maravich but it was the Chicago Bulls who were hot as a pistol Tuesday night.

The Celtics, battling the Philadelphia 76ers for the best record in the National Basketball Association, announced the signing of free agent Maravich shortly after Pistol Pete watched them defeat the Houston Rockets 112-106. The Bulls, on the other hand, had all the weapons they needed in shooting a team record 70 percent from the floor in trouncing the Detroit Pistons 145-131.

In other action, the Kansas City Kings downed the Atlanta Hawks 101-89, the Utah Jazz overtook the Milwaukee Bucks 127-122, the San Antonio Spurs crushed the San Diego Clippers 129-109 and the Cleveland Cavaliers whipped the Washington Bullets 114-91.

Rickey Sobers and David Greenwood scored 26 points apiece as the Bulls rolled up their highest point total in four years. The Bulls and Pistons set a Chicago Stadium mark by scoring 92 points, 50 by Detroit, in the fourth quarter.

The Bulls shot 83 percent in the first quarter, raced to a 67-52 halftime lead and coasted the rest of the way.

Maravich no sooner signed than he said he planned to go on the injured list until he recovers from a "slightly pulled groin muscle."

Maravich, 31, whose aching knees passed a physical examination by the 76ers' doctors on Monday, said he weighed "a lot of factors" in signing a one-year pact with the Celtics, winners of numerous NBA titles.

"When it came down to the end result," he said, "I've been trying to get here for 10 years. You have 13 flags hanging here. The only flag I have is my little United States of America flag."

"I would rather have him here than defend against him at Philadelphia," said Boston Coach Bill Fitch.

Fitch was able to joke after the Celtics blew a 22-point lead following an injury to Dave Cowens early in the second half but rallied down the stretch to beat Houston with reserve Gerald Henderson contributing six key points.

Cowens made nine of 10 shots before leaving with a jammed ankle with Boston in front 67-53. The Celtics built it to 77-55 before the Rockets began their comeback. Led by Moses Malone and Rick Barry, they pulled into a tie with 4:29 remaining. Rick Robey, spelling Cowens at center, then canned four free throws and Henderson added his points.

Kings 101, Hawks 89
Bill Robinson and Ernie Grunfeld came off the bench to spark the Kings. Robinson scored a season-high 28 points while Grunfeld added 18. The Kings scored the last nine points in the third quarter to take a 74-63 advantage as Atlanta went the final 2:16 of the period without scoring.

Jazz 127, Bucks 122
Ben Poquette and Adrian Dantley split 12 Utah points in overtime after the Jazz made it that far when Ron Boone canned a pair of free throws with six seconds left in regulation time. Dantley led all scorers with 36 points and Boone finished with 20.

Marques Johnson led Milwaukee with 31. Poquette, who finished with 16 points, hit the key baskets in overtime, scoring three in a row to give Utah a 121-117 edge with 44 seconds remaining.

Spurs 129, Clippers 109
George Gervin and James Silas teamed for 55 points and newly acquired John Shumate added 16 for San Antonio. Shumate, obtained from Houston last week for Billy Paultz, also grabbed 10 rebounds, blocked three shots and had three steals. The Clippers, who dropped their third straight game, were playing without Lloyd Free, the NBA's No. 2 scorer behind Gervin, who suffered an ankle injury last week. Gervin scored 30 points and Silas added 25, the ninth straight game in which he has hit 20 or more.

Cavaliers 114, Bullets 91
Mike Mitchell scored 25 points, reserve center John Lambert added a career-high 18 and the Cavaliers never trailed in handling the Bullets their fifth consecutive loss. Roger Phegley had 20 points for the Bullets.

Al Neuharth To Be Speaker At Press Convention

OWENSBORO, Ky. (AP) — Al Neuharth of Rochester, N.Y., president of the Gannett Newspaper chain and president of the American Newspaper Publishers Association, will be the featured banquet speaker Friday at the 1980 midwinter convention of the Kentucky Press Association.

The KPA meeting begins Thursday with a reception at the Owensboro Museum of Fine Art and concludes Saturday with an awards luncheon.

Other speakers at the three-day meeting will include William G. Mullen, executive director of the National Newspaper Association; Calvin Grayson, former state transportation secretary; Jules Bergman, science editor for the ABC network; and Alvin From, President Carter's deputy adviser on inflation.

The KPA is a statewide organization that represents daily and weekly newspapers. It has more than 175 newspaper members.

Presiding at the convention will be Paul E. Mick, editor and publisher of the weekly Crittenden Press at Marion, Ky. Walter Dear, publisher of the Henderson Gleaner, assumes the KPA presidency at the conclusion of the convention.

MOBILITY — Darryl Stingley, paralyzed in a 1978 pre-season game of the New England Patriots, uses a sling device when he is moved by a nurse in his Chicago home to do his rehabilitation exercises. Despite therapy five days a week, he doesn't know whether he will ever have full control of his arms or be able to walk again.

Under Legislation Introduced In House

Judges', Clerks' Salaries To Keep Pace

By MARIA BRADEN

Associated Press Writer

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Salaries of the state's judges and court clerks would keep pace with inflation under legislation introduced in the Kentucky House of Representatives.

House Bill 321, sponsored Tuesday by Rep. Joe Clarke, D-Danville, would go into effect immediately upon passage and approval by the governor. The bill says inflation "has severely diminished the purchasing power of judges and clerks."

Basically, the measure would require the state Finance Department to compute salaries of justices, judges and clerks based on the consumer price index in order to bring their salaries in line with the purchasing power of the 1976 dollar.

The bill leaves the base salaries of judges the same as they are now: Supreme Court justices would be paid $39,000; Court of Appeals judges, $37,000; circuit judges, $35,000, except in the case of district judges, who would be paid $27,500 until Jan. 1, 1982, when their salaries would increase to $30,000.

"It is the intention of the Legislature that the permissible adjustment of the salaries of these officials be framed around equating current salaries with the purchasing power of the dollar," the bill says.

Other House bills introduced Tuesday included HB328, sponsored by Rep. Gregory Stumbo, D-Prestonsburg, which would require so-called broad form deeds — which grant a right to extract minerals — to describe in specific terms the manner of coal extraction to be employed.

Most broad form deeds were signed around the turn of the century, when current strip mining methods were unknown.

The measure says that in the absence of convincing evidence to the contrary, the minerals may only be removed by the principal manner in use at the time the deed was signed.

Other new bills were:

—HB336, sponsored by Rep. Bob Jones, D-Crestwood, to prohibit personal service contracts for advertising, promotion or public relations unless the state public information agency cannot provide the service. The bill says such contracts have been made previously without regard for whether the services exist in state government.

—HB315, sponsored by Rep. Bob Helinger, D-Louisville, to make it a felony to perform an abortion in other than a hospital licensed by the state. Helinger also sponsored HB312, to cut legislators' per diem expense allowances from $75 to $50 and monthly allowances from $750 to $550, and HB314, to permit independent voters to designate and vote in a party primary election of their choice.

Governor's Father Contests IRS

WASHINGTON (AP) —

John Y. Brown Sr., father of Kentucky Gov. John Y. Brown Jr., has contested an Internal Revenue Service contention that he owes $40,709 in 1971, 1972 and 1973 income taxes.

Brown has been granted a trial on the matter in Louisville by the tax court.

A spokesman in the Lexington attorney's office said Tuesday that he was not in and it was not known where he could be reached.

Records in U.S. Tax Court in Washington, D.C., show the IRS has asked Brown to pay deficiencies of $16,569 for 1971, $20,407 for 1972 and $3,732 for 1973.

The dispute between Brown and the IRS centers on deductions which the tax agency would not allow. The deductions were for travel, car rental, production of a movie, capital gains, dues and subscriptions, automobile expenses, entertainment and medical expenses.

In a letter and explanation dated last April 17, the IRS said Brown reported taxable income as $22,317 in 1971, $140,791 in 1972 and $57,836 in 1973.

The IRS said its adjustments would bring the figures to $58,965 in 1971, $172,997 in 1972 and $64,814 in 1973.

The records show that Brown paid $4,843 in taxes in 1971, $70,622 in 1972 and $21,775 in 1973. The deficiencies are the differences between those figures and the tax computed by the IRS.

U.S. Tax Court judges travel a circuit around the country and they usually sit in Louisville twice a year.

The court is scheduled to convene in Louisville Feb. 11, but Brown's case is not on the calendar for that session.

Other tax court records show that Brown was assessed $23,921 in deficiencies for the 1969 tax year and $526 for the 1970 tax year.

Brown was ordered by the tax court in August 1976 to pay those amounts following an agreement between his attorney and the IRS.

Committee Okays Resolution Requiring Balanced Budget

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — A Senate committee has approved a resolution which is designed to force Congress to adopt a constitutional amendment requiring a balanced federal budget.

Senate Concurrent Resolution 9 was approved by a 43 vote Tuesday in the Elections and Constitutional Amendments Committee. It now goes to the Senate floor.

The resolution would require Congress to call a constitutional convention to write a balanced budget amendment if Congress did not propose the amendment to the states. A balanced budget would be required except in time of national emergency.

The draft of the resolution reflects a division on the committee over which presents the greater threat to the country — a continued budget deficit or a convention that might make other changes in the Constitution that could jeopardize individual rights.

Under the resolution, the call for a convention would be declared void if the convention strayed beyond a balanced budget amendment and changed other parts of the Constitution.

Senate Majority Leader

John Berry Jr., D-New Castle, sponsored the resolution, and predicted Congress will approve the amendment rather than let the issue pass to a convention if it senses a convention is imminent.

Berry told the committee that 30 of the 34 states necessary to call a constitutional convention have adopted a similar resolution.

State Justice Stephenson Files For Reelection

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — State Supreme Court Justice James B. Stephenson of Pikeville filed Tuesday for reelection.

Stephenson, 63, was elected to his current post in 1972 from the 7th Supreme Court District. He is a World War II veteran.

Born in Greenup, Stephenson graduated from the University of Kentucky and was admitted to the bar in 1939. He has twice been circuit judge in Pike County.

Beshear To Look Into Irregularities

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Attorney General Steven Beshear said Tuesday he will investigate possible irregularities in the operation of the state Revenue Department's sales and severance tax division.

Beshear said the investigation would begin immediately, at the request of Gov. John Y. Brown Jr. and Revenue Commissioner Robert Alphin.

Beshear said the request for an investigation "gives us the latitude to look into any possible irregularities in the operation of that division," but said he has not yet decided how to proceed.

The probe is in connection with a high-level shakeup made by Alphin, who is checking into what he called "certain matters" relating to his department's tax collection procedures.

Panama Spokesman Denies Shah's Arrest

By INDALECIO RODRIGUEZ

Associated Press Writer
PANAMA CITY, Panama (AP) — A Panamanian army spokesman denied an Iranian government announcement today that Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi had been arrested for extradition to Iran.

A spokesman for the deposed monarch said he was asleep at his rented villa on Contadora Island and no move had been made to arrest him.

An Iranian government announcement, relayed by Pars, the official Iranian news agency, and the official Tehran Radio, said President Artideses Royo of Panama informed Iranian Foreign Minister Sadegh Ghotbzadeh "the deposed shah was under arrest by the Panamanian government...and the Panamanian government is awaiting receipt of evidence and documents from the Iranian government for the purpose of trying and extraditing the deposed shah."

"No, it is not true," said the duty officer at the headquarters of the national guard, Panama's army, when asked about the report. A man who answered the phone at the home of President Royo said he knew nothing about the report. And Mark Morse, a spokesman for the shah who was contacted by telephone on Contadora, said Pahlavi and his entourage knew nothing of any change in his situation.

Royo and Panama's military strongman, Gen. Omar Torrijos, gave the shah asylum Dec. 15. Since then, he and his wife have been living in a borrowed villa on the resort island of Contadora, off the Pacific coast 35 miles southeast of Panama City.

In Tehran, meanwhile, an American minister said the Iranian revolutionary regime will invite 500 "dignitaries" from around the world for a week-long "international fact-finding" conference Feb. 4-11 to examine events leading to the seizure of the U.S. Embassy and its staff on Nov. 4.

The Rev. Bobby Mills of Houston, Texas, predicted the meeting "will eventuate the release of the hostages," who today began their 81st day in captivity. But he acknowledged during a telephone interview conducted from New York that no Iranian had indicated any retreat from the position that the approximately 50 American hostages would not be freed until the shah was returned to Iran for trial.

On Saturday, Ghotbzadeh said a solution to the deadlock was "easy" — "They give us the shah. We give them the hostages."

Mills, who came to Tehran with three other Houston ministers in a so-far-fruitless attempt to intercede with Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, said he learned of the Feb. 4-11 meeting planned by the Iranians from the foreign press office at the Ministry of National Guidance. But a woman answering the telephone there today said she knew nothing about the meeting.

U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim said today in New Delhi, India, that he was "still negotiating details" for the establishment of an international commission to investigate the shah's alleged misdeeds. The commission is part of a package arrangement he is working on to secure the hostages' release, Waldheim said.

Lexington Police Face Crisis

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — The Lexington-Fayette County Division of Police "faces a real crisis of confidence in the existing Division leadership," according to a task force report on alleged administrative and morale problems within the department.

The report, released Tuesday, said the lack of confidence was "almost unanimous" among rank and file officers and added there was "a very real question as to whether the existing Division leadership has the capability to cope with this crisis of confidence or, based on past performance, many of the (management) issues themselves."

The 63-page report was drafted by a four-man advisory committee appointed in September by Mayor James Amato and headed by Kentucky State Police Commissioner Ken Brandenburg.

The report included 24 pages of recommended changes to an ordinance governing police promotions.

Amato reportedly had not met with Police Chief Nolen Freeman before releasing the report. Amato and Freeman could not be reached for comment Tuesday night, despite repeated attempts.

The committee said in the report that it confidentially

THE NEWS IN BRIEF

WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter, in what would be an abrupt reversal of administration policy, is said to be considering asking Congress to authorize peacetime registration of draft-age youths.

Administration sources said Tuesday they believed the proposal came from within the White House staff. It comes amid unrest abroad, manpower problems in the military and a renewed defense orientation on Capitol Hill. White House officials declined comment Tuesday night.

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. intelligence sources say there are indications the Soviets may have used death-dealing nerve gas against anti-Marxist rebels in Afghanistan. The sources, who declined to be identified, said the evidence is not conclusive enough to permit an open accusation by the United States.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration is engaged in a flurry of diplomatic activity involving a range of ideologically diverse countries and aimed at containing the impact of the Soviet intervention in Afghanistan.

The U.S. initiatives include a series of sensitive diplomatic missions to Pakistan, India and Romania; a campaign to gather foreign support for a proposed global boycott of the Moscow Summer Olympics, and an effort to persuade European allies not to undercut various economic measures taken against the Soviets.

Pakistani officials say their government wants several billion dollars in foreign aid to build up its defenses against the Soviet troops in Afghanistan.

Agha Shahi, foreign policy adviser to Pakistani President Mohammed Zia ul-Haq, said Tuesday that U.S. assistance "must be commensurate with the size of the threat" the Soviet intervention poses.

He told reporters in Islamabad that Pakistan is seeking "credible U.S. military and economic assistance which should be durable and serve to strengthen its security vis-a-vis the threat developing on its western frontier."

Fire Destroys House

Fire totally destroyed the house and its contents owned by Mr. and Mrs. Paul Burkeen this morning, according to a Calloway County Fire-Rescue Squad spokesman.

The house was located on Kentucky 464, off of Van Cleave Road.

The spokesman said the fire started around 9:30 a.m. in a back room. Cause has not yet been determined, he added.

Three trucks and seven men fought the blaze.

Mr. and Mrs. Burkeen will be at the home of their son,

Wayne Burkeen and family, temporarily.

Friends and neighbors have started a drive for clothing for Mr. and Mrs. Burkeen. Sizes for Mrs. Burkeen are dress, 22½, shoes 6 to 6½, and coat, large; and for Burkeen, overalls 36-31, shirt, medium or 15, pants 36-31, and shoes, 8.

Persons may leave items at the residences of Wayne Burkeen or Joe Rob Haley.

This is the second time that the Burkeen family has lost their home by fire during their married life.

Superintendent Arranges Conference For Pastors

The Rev. Aleck Ulmet, district superintendent of the Kentucky district of the Church of the Nazarene, has arranged for a conference of pastors and their wives at Kentucky Dam Village, in Gilbertsville.

The sessions will begin at 6 p.m. Monday, Feb. 4, and will conclude at noon on Wednesday. Pastors and wives from this community will attend and will hear Dr. and Mrs. George Coulter speak on inspirational themes.

While the meeting is primarily a time of spiritual refreshing and renewal, some promotional matters will be presented by the district superintendent. Plans for the 20th General Assembly of the international denomination, to be held at Kansas City, Missouri June 19-27, 1980, will be announced. At least one new General Superintendent will be elected at business sessions of the General Assembly since one of the six general leaders, Dr. George Coulter, will retire.

With the rapid growth and maturing of the mission fields, the Church of the Nazarene is undergoing structural changes in its worldwide organization to meet the implications of its internationalization, and some of these innovations will be considered at the coming General Assembly, a church spokesman said.

To Be On Market In February

MSU Dean Co-Authors Two Textbooks

Dr. David L. Eldredge, dean of the College of Business and Public Affairs at Murray State University, is a co-author of two textbooks to be put on the market in February.

He collaborated with Dr. D. L. Bates, an associate professor of management at California State University at Long Beach, in the preparation of the texts, which Eldredge explained can be used individually or as a package to complement each other.

Published by the Wm. C. Brown Company Publishers of Dubuque, Iowa, the books are: "Strategy and Policy: Analysis, Formulation and Implementation," which is a learning package for the business policy course required of all business majors. The 700-page book includes both comprehensive case studies and simulation games keyed to each chapter.

"The Business Strategy and Policy Game," which is a 162-page volume that translates management theory into practice. It is designed to enable students to develop their ability to formulate effective goals, objectives, strategies and policies within a business environment by focusing on the process of managerial decision-making.

Eldredge joined the management faculty at Murray State in 1976 and was named dean of the six-department college in 1977.

He was formerly the Mead Johnson Professor of Management and an assistant dean and department head at the University of Evansville. Eldredge has also been employed in industry as a management scientist, manager of operations research, research engineer, and weapons systems engineer. He has been active as a writer, researcher, consultant, and resource person, as well as teacher and administrator.

Two executives of Arvin Industries, Inc., of Princeton, who are Murray State adjunct faculty members will conduct the seminar sessions. They are Samuel O. Ruth, vice president of U. S. Manufacturing, Consumer Electronics Division; and Jere Hall, industrial relations manager.

Sessions are scheduled from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. and from 6 to 9 p.m. on Tuesday and from 8:30 a.m. to 2:45 p.m., followed by a critique, on Wednesday.

The seminar is designed to meet the needs of people who hold administrative or supervisory positions, particularly in business and industry or the medical field.

Topics to be covered are: communication skills; decision making; management styles; time management; goal setting; human relations techniques; creativity; job instruction training; management development programs; and interviewing and screening skills.

Participants may earn Continuing Education Units (CEUs). The Kentucky Board of Licensure for Nursing Home Administrators has approved the program.

The fee of $100 for each participant does not include meals and lodging. Participants should make their own reservations for lodging.

Anyone interested in attending the seminar must pre-register and may do so by calling the Office of Conferences and Continuing Education at Murray State (502) 762-2716.

'First Channel' Has Been Published In Hardcover Edition By Doubleday

"First Channel," by Jean Lorrach and Jacqueline Lichtenberg, has just been published in a hardcover edition by Doubleday & Company. One of the authors, Dr. Jean Lorrach, is a professor in the English Department at Murray State University.

"First Channel is a science fiction novel. Dr. Lorrach will quickly inform you that "It has nothing to do with television!" The channel of the title is a person, Rimor Farris, who must overcome great obstacles, both physical and psychological, to end the killing that is a daily feature of the world in which he grows up.

"First Channel is a love story," says Dr. Lorrach, "a story of young pioneers, and the story of a man of deep and abiding faith who at last sees his faith rewarded despite impossible odds."

The lives of Rimor and Kadi, the young couple who love and marry despite a society that forbids them, and Abel Veritt, the older man who helps them when Rimor's father throws them out, are entangled because of the mutation which is the science fiction aspect of the novel. The basic story, though, is one of human beings with human problems, overcoming hate and fear through love and faith.

This book is Dr. Lorrach's first novel. She and Mrs. Lichtenberg are working on a sequel, Channel's Destiny, which will be published in 1981. Meanwhile, Dr. Lorrach has just completed another novel, Savage Empire: The White Wolf, the first in a series of heroic fantasies to be published by Playboy Press Paperbacks, "as books — not in Playboy Magazine!" Dr. Lorrach adds, as many people don't realize that Playboy publishes a line of paperback books.

The Murray State University Bookstore has copies of First Channel in the hardcover edition. The paperback edition, also from Playboy Press, will not be published until 1981.

MSU's Yearbook Awarded First In Competition

Murray State University's yearbook, The Shield, has been awarded a first place certificate from the Columbia Scholastic Press Association (CSPA) in its 1979 review of college and university yearbooks.

According to Shield advisers Frank Fazi and Dr. Bob McGaughey, the 1979 yearbook was the first book ever entered by Murray State in the national competition.

"Editor Mary Dorris changed the format of the yearbook to a more modern and magazine-style publication," McGaughey said. Miss Dorris is now working in her hometown of Evansville in the public relations field, he added.

The assistant editor for the 1979 annual and this year's editor, Elaine Spalding of Elizabethtown, said she feels the judge's critiques will help the staff this year to raise the score of 878 points out of a possible 1,000 to an even higher score for the 1980 Shield.

"We have already changed several structural elements which we feel will result in a higher score by CSPA and also be more pleasing to Murray State students," Miss Spalding said.

The Shield is published annually by a staff of 12 Murray State students. The Shield, along with the Murray State News, gives students practical working experience in the journalistic and graphic arts fields while working towards their degrees. The Murray State News has received top awards in the CSPA contest for several years.

Alaska Art Professor To Present Demonstration

Terence Choy, associate professor of art at the University of Alaska at Fairbanks, will present a lecture and demonstration on Chinese painting and calligraphy on Friday, Jan. 25, at Murray State University.

Scheduled to begin at 1:30 p.m. in Room 431 of the Price Doyle Fine Arts Center, the program sponsored by the Department of Art at Murray State is open to the public at no admission charge.

Choy, who was born and reared in Hong Kong, will discuss some of the artistic concepts behind Chinese painting and calligraphy, with particular emphasis on the Lannam style of art. He will also demonstrate techniques and methods of Chinese painting and calligraphy.

His early study of art was at the Lingnam Art Academy in Kowloon, where he received classical training in Chinese calligraphy and painting. Later he earned the B.A. degree in art at San Francisco State University and the M.A. degree in art at the University of California in Berkeley.

Among his honors have been fellowships from the National Endowment for the Arts, the National Endowment for the Humanities, and the Rockefeller Foundation.

His work has been exhibited in several one-man shows and numerous group shows and traveling shows across the United States and Canada.

THE ACES[®] IRA G. CORN, JR.

"Custom doth make dotards of us all" — Thomas Carlyle

East must depart from custom if he is to beat today's touch-and-go game. Finding the right suit to lead is not enough; one must also use care in finding the right card.

Declarer wins his club king and draws trumps in three rounds. Next he leads the diamond queen and a finesse is lost to East's king.

It is obvious now that East must shift to spades. The trumps are gone and dummy is solid in the minor suits. But which spade should East lead?

If he leads the eight, declarer will duck and dummy's 10 will force West's ace. Now the defense can take only two spade tricks and declarer will make his game.

East might have a slightly better chance if he leads the spade king and then the eight. Perhaps declarer might play him for the A-K and go up with his queen. More probable, however, is that West will signal violently with his nine of spades and South will decipher what is taking place.

The best play is for East to lead the jack of spades. Declarer will be forced to cover with the queen and West will win the ace. A low spade back will complete the job. If dummy's 10 is played, East's king will win and, if dummy plays low,
